Livingston Parish

Are you looking for Southern charm with a modern twist? Livingston Parish just might become your new go-to! Only 10 minutes from Baton Rouge and 45 minutes from New Orleans, this Louisiana hotspot is one of the fastest-growing parishes in the state—and it is easy to see why. Originally part of the Florida Parishes, Livingston Parish was created in 1832 when the State Legislature split St. Helena Parish in two. What they created was an utterly unique spot—one that combines slow, southern charm and modern urbanism perfectly to make a trip to Livingston Parish a memorable favorite you will return to repeatedly.

The cities and towns of Livingston Parish are as diverse as they are beautiful. Each offers a unique opportunity for visitors to enjoy. Take advantage of incredible shopping venues and indulge in some authentic local cuisine. Experience delicious Cajun eats, eccentric arts and vibrant culture, live music, specialty shopping and more. Sample spicy crawfish and savor the taste of award-winning seafood in Livingston Parish. Hear country music in Walker, gospel in Marion or bluegrass near Port Vincent.
