Cameron Parish, Louisiana

Outdoor Adventure Is In Our Nature!

Whether you are looking to relax with breathtaking views painted by nature or create your own outdoor adventure with world-class fishing, hunting or birding, Cameron Parish is your vacation paradise!

Natural Splendor to Leave You Breathless

With less than 7,000 residents in this, the largest parish by land area in Louisiana, Cameron Parish is truly all about nature. No incorporated municipalities, very few traffic lights and miles and miles of wide open sky overlooking vast wetlands and nature's bounty, displaying every shade of green known to man - that's Cameron Parish.

Birding Abundance

The birding opportunities in Cameron Parish are definitely worth bringing your binoculars. In any given year, over 400 different species of birds can be spotted in this corner of Sportsman's Paradise! We are located in the middle of the Central and Mississippi Flyways, attracting millions of migratory birds in the fall and spring. The coastal marshlands and chenier ridges host migratory birds, waterfowl and wading birds. Keep your eye out for hawks and osprey in the fall and winter months and look for neo-tropical migrants, such as warblers, vireo and flycatchers, in the spring and fall. Whether you're an expert or novice, birding in Cameron Parish is an experience you can't miss.
