French Market Inn

With its exposed brick walls, antique art, and cozy guest rooms, French Market Inn offers a romantic getaway right in the heart of the French Quarter. Built in 1722, the hotel fully embraces its many decades of history. Walk through the meandering garden and stone-paved courtyard and admire the period paintings, chandeliers, and columns.

Settle into your guest room with either one king or queen bed or two queen beds, some of which have balconies that overlook the French Quarter. Relax in the swimming pool before stepping out of the hotel, which sits within six blocks of Jackson Square, the French Market, and more. Explore the French Quarter, then come home to the French Market Inn.

Prince Conti Hotel

Standing one block away from Bourbon Street, Prince Conti Hotel is a European-style charmer with 76 upscale guest rooms and suites, an on-site restaurant, and the popular The Bombay Club. Each room and suite comes with one king or two queen beds, while the suites have well-appointed sitting areas that provide a soothing place to kick back after a full day of discovering New Orleans.

When it's time to eat, head down to the stylish Cafe Conti for savory and sweet crepes, breakfast sandwiches, and other items available during breakfast and lunch hours. For dinner, look no further than The Bombay Club, purveyors of mouthwatering Creole and French cuisine and an impressive selection of handcrafted cocktails. Stick around for the live music held every night to enjoy the sounds of New Orleans.

Hotel St. Marie

Combining the undeniable appeal of the French Quarter with modern luxuries, Hotel St. Marie provides an elegant starting point to discovering New Orleans.

As one of the few hotels in the French Quarter with balconies, you can admire the view of the lush tropical courtyard or the bustling streets below without leaving your room.

Relax in the swimming pool and indulge in authentic Cajun food for breakfast, lunch, and dinner at the Vacherie Restaurant & Bar.

Given the boutique hotel's location near Bourbon Street, you're just a short walk away from all the sights and sounds of the French Quarter.

Place d'Armes

The wrought-iron balconies and arched entryway of Place d'Armes serves up a hint of what this French Quarter hotel is all about. Beautifully restored 18th- and 19th-century buildings house 100 guest rooms and suites and two meeting rooms while also surrounding a verdant courtyard and swimming pool with fountains.

The Place d'Armes is another hotel with balconies in the French Quarter, which you can enjoy if you stay in the Balcony Room.

Rest easy, as the hotel's ideal location means you're just a stroll away from the famous Cafe du Monde and all the other sights of the French Quarter.
